Scoutmoor - Natural Yorkstone

Scoutmoor

With the exceptional performance and outstanding quality that is the hallmark of our Natural Yorkstone range, Scoutmoor is a prestigious stone paving that has been used, for over a century, in many landmark settings throughout London including Trafalgar Square.

Predominantly blue-grey with varying amount of buff it has a diamond sawn smooth surface finish and is now available 38mm thick, making it ideal for domestic applications. Scoutmoor is packed in 600mm gauge project packs in random lengths, to create the traditional coursed laying pattern.

Colour and Texture Advice

The colours shown are as exact as photographic and printing processes allow. These colourways are intended to give an overall impression of the range of colours that can be found within each product when mixing from three or more packs. They do not give or imply an exact indication of the variations or final proportions of colours found in these products. We encourage that final selection be made from viewing the product laid in a stockist display. In viewing the paving, it should be noted that colour variations and markings are a characteristic of natural stone products. Inherent variation cannot be controlled nor the precise shade of the stone guaranteed. Surface markings can occur in deliveries which may not be seen in a sample. Stone paving may also bear surface markings incurred in the sawing process.
